SHARE FOR BETTER SAFER CARE!

Giving access to your health record to other health professionals means safer, better care!

Your health information and the Shared Health Record

Most of your health information is kept at the general practice you are enrolled with.

If you do visit another health professional, such as the hospital, community pharmacy or an urgent care centre, they may not know about the medicines you take, or allergies and other health conditions you may have.

Health professionals will now be able to see a summary of your health record from your general practice.

The person looking after you will be able to see:

- What medications you are taking
- If you have any allergies
- Health problems you may have such as diabetes, asthma and so on

HEALTH PROFESSIONALS WILL ALWAYS ASK YOU BEFORE THEY ACCESS YOUR HEALTH RECORD.

What if I don't want my health information to be shared?

If you have any questions, concerns or do not wish to share your health information please turn over for more information.
